

I am opposed to the broadband aproach via power lines with the possible exception of underground lines.
For years I have had to endure power line interference on many Amateur frequencies and also on my T.V.
The existing sytem needs updating in a major way all across the USA.
I have a power line to the West of my home that has ROTTEN poles, BURNED Cross arms and low voltage insulators carrying higher than rated voltage